CHICAGO (AP) — The chances are nearly one in nine, says the Illinois Medical Society, that your doctor is an alcoholic or narcotics addict.

And the American Medical Association, realizing the seriousness of the problem, is encouraging state medical societies to start campaigns to detect "impaired" doctors. The Illinois Medical Society announced formation of its detection program at its state convention this weekend.

"This is a very serious problem and for the first time we are really beginning to search out and treat 'sick physicians,'" said Dr. James W. West, who is chairman of the IMS Panel for the Impaired Physician.

The president of the AMA, Dr. Richard E. Palmer, estimated earlier this year that about 17,000 of the 408,000 doctors — one in 24 — registered nationally are "impaired."

But the IMS believes the figure is more like one in nine. The state society estimates that of the state's 14,630 practicing physicians, 11.5 per cent may have a severe drinking problem, while 584 Illinois doctors are narcotics addicts.

Alcoholism and narcotics addiction in the medical profession are "higher than average because of the pressure doctors are under, dealing with life and death situations every day," Frank Chappell of the AMA said in an interview Sunday. He added that doctors have a greater than average chance of becoming drug addicts because they have easy access to drugs.

But patients shouldn't worry too much, Chappell said, "because most of these guys don't do anything until after office hours."

Many doctors are alcoholics or drug addicts and don't know it, Chappell said.

"The big problem in this area is to get the doctors to realize they have a problem," he said. "What we've got to do is identify these doctors and make them aware of their problem before they do any damage."

Chappell said that both the AMA and the IMS encourage doctors and relatives of doctors with problems to tell their local medical societies.

Carter proposes limit on hospital fee hikes

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter proposed legislation today to put a ceiling of nine per cent a year on hospital fee increases which he said would save the government, health insurance companies and consumers about $2 billion in the fiscal year beginning Oct. 1.

The legislation sent to Congress today provides a number of exceptions that could mean the present runaway inflation in hospital costs would be held to only about 10 per cent nationally in the first year if Congress adopts the administration's proposal.

After that, increases would be restricted further to bring the fees hospitals charge their patients more in line with the national rate of inflation.

The program is expected to yield total savings of more than $5.5 billion in fiscal 1980, the administration said.

Limiting increases in hospital charges to nine per cent won't affect many people directly, but consumers should benefit eventually as the measure slows the rate of tax increases and the rise in health insurance premiums.

New hospitals, federal hospitals and those hospitals that operate on a Health Maintenance Organization (HMO) basis will be exempt from the proposed ceiling. HMO hospitals provide continuing preventive health care and treatment to member consumers who pay fixed fees for all services.

Inflation in the health care industry has been running about 15 per cent, and hospitals account for 40 per cent of the $140-billion annual cost of health care in the United States.

Health, Education and Welfare Secretary Joseph A. Califano Jr. has called the ceiling on hospital charges "the first step in making national health insurance financially feasible."

ONTARIO MAN HASSLED

Jim Eliason, right, of Ontario and Richard Pecarovich, left, of Los Angeles, along with other stranded crew members stand aboard the ketch, Barbara, in Fort Lauderdale, Fla., Sunday. Some of the "crew" paid as much as $2,000 to take the sailboat on a pleasure cruise to 17 ports but ended up stranded in Fort Lauderdale after a series of troubles, including subpoenas, bad checks and a fight. "I've demanded my money back, but I can't leave — I paid $2,000," said crew member Eliason, 27. "But I'm tired of working to keep this boat floating."

United Nations report

World has enough oil, gas for 100 years

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — A United Nations report says the world probably has enough oil and gas to last at least 100 years, but much of it will be expensive to tap. The report, which says conventional sources could take care of the demand for the next 45 or 55 years, appeared to contradict the Central Intelligence Agency report which President Carter used in opening his campaign for American conservation of energy.

The CIA report said: "In the absence of greatly increased energy conservation, projected world demand for oil will... substantially exceed capacity by 1985."

The U.N. report said: "Additional petroleum and gas resources would most probably be available, albeit at a substantially higher cost... during the period of transition to the use of renewable energy sources, even if this transition period should last a hundred years or more."

The U.N. document is a summary of a report based on a conference held last July in Laxenburg, Austria.

About 70 geologists, engineers, economists and systems analysts attended the conference, which was sponsored by the U.N. Institute for Training and Research and the International Institute for Applied Systems Analysis.

The full report is to be issued May 1.

The summary concluded that oil would remain the world's most important hydrocarbon source of energy "for many years to come."

It said new reserves of fuel may be discovered, especially in developing countries and offshore, and that through technical advances extraction will become more efficient.

Supreme Court refuses to hear Manson appeal

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court today refused to hear the appeal of convicted mass-murderer Charles Manson and three members of his "family" who were found guilty in the brutal slayings of seven persons in 1971.

The justices let stand a decision by the California Supreme Court that Manson and the others received a fair trial.

In other court action, the court:

—Let stand a lower court decision allowing the government to penalize those responsible for oil spills into U.S. waterways even though they obey the law requiring them to report the spills.

—Refused to intervene in a lower court decision saying that the Federal Energy Administration is authorized to regulate all credit terms and payment schedules within the petroleum industry.

—Refused to consider whether the editor of a student newspaper at a state university may refuse a paid advertisement describing counseling and legal services offered by a homosexual alliance. The justices let stand a U.S. Circuit Court decision upholding the right of the student editor at Mississippi State University to reject the ad because he objected to the subject matter.

Iranian official comments on Carter energy statements

TEHRAN, Iran (AP) — An Iranian official says President Carter's recent statements on energy was "what the Shah of Iran said four years ago."

Nasir Asar, the Foreign Ministry under secretary said Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi issued a statement in 1973 pointing out the value of oil, its scarcity, "and the importance of energy conservation."

"We are very pleased that President Carter has come to the same conclusion," he told a news conference Sunday.

Jordan's King Hussein pays a visit

Carter warns of over-optimism in Middle East peace settlement

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter welcomed King Hussein of Jordan to the White House today and warned against over-optimism in the search for a Middle East peace settlement.

With the diminutive monarch at his side on the White House south lawn, the President said, "it would be a mistake to be too optimistic" in view of the long-standing divisions between the Arabs and Israelis.

But Hussein, who is on one of his frequent trips to the United States, said "Jordan is ready to play its full part in the quest for a just and lasting settlement" and "a final resolution of the problems of the Middle East."

The welcoming ceremony was ab-breivated, because this is billed as a "working visit." Unlike visits of other foreign leaders to the White House this year, there were no small flags handed out for the crowd on the lawn.

Carter, who met after the ceremony with Hussein in private in the Oval Office, said he would seek advice and counsel "on how our own country might play a role" in bringing together the opposing factions in the Middle East.

In addition to the meeting today, Carter planned a working dinner for Hussein in the State Dining Room of the White House tonight and another meeting with him on Tuesday.

Hussein, who is in his 25th year on the throne, saluted his country's ties with the United States which he said were based on convergent interests and shared ideas but said that in the past in the Middle East "we suffered from a gap in communications between the United States and the Arab world."

There was no mention during the ceremony of the problem of resettling Palestinian refugees, one of the key issues in the Middle East dispute affecting Jordan.

Nor did Carter repeat his desire, stated often earlier in the year but not recently, for a reconvening during the second half of 1977 of the Geneva peace talks.

Carter called Hussein one of the "staunch friends and permanent allies" of the United States.

Raps those who would be 'power brokers'

Brown warm on Jimmy Carter; still quiet on political future

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Gov. Edmund Brown Jr. says "it's silly" to say whether he may oppose President Carter again for the Democratic party's White House nomination.

"I have not made a final decision on running for governor," said Brown, whose four-year term ends next year. But he said his relations with Carter are warm — I respect him."

Brown made the comments Sunday before leaving San Diego for Los Angeles en route back to Sacramento.

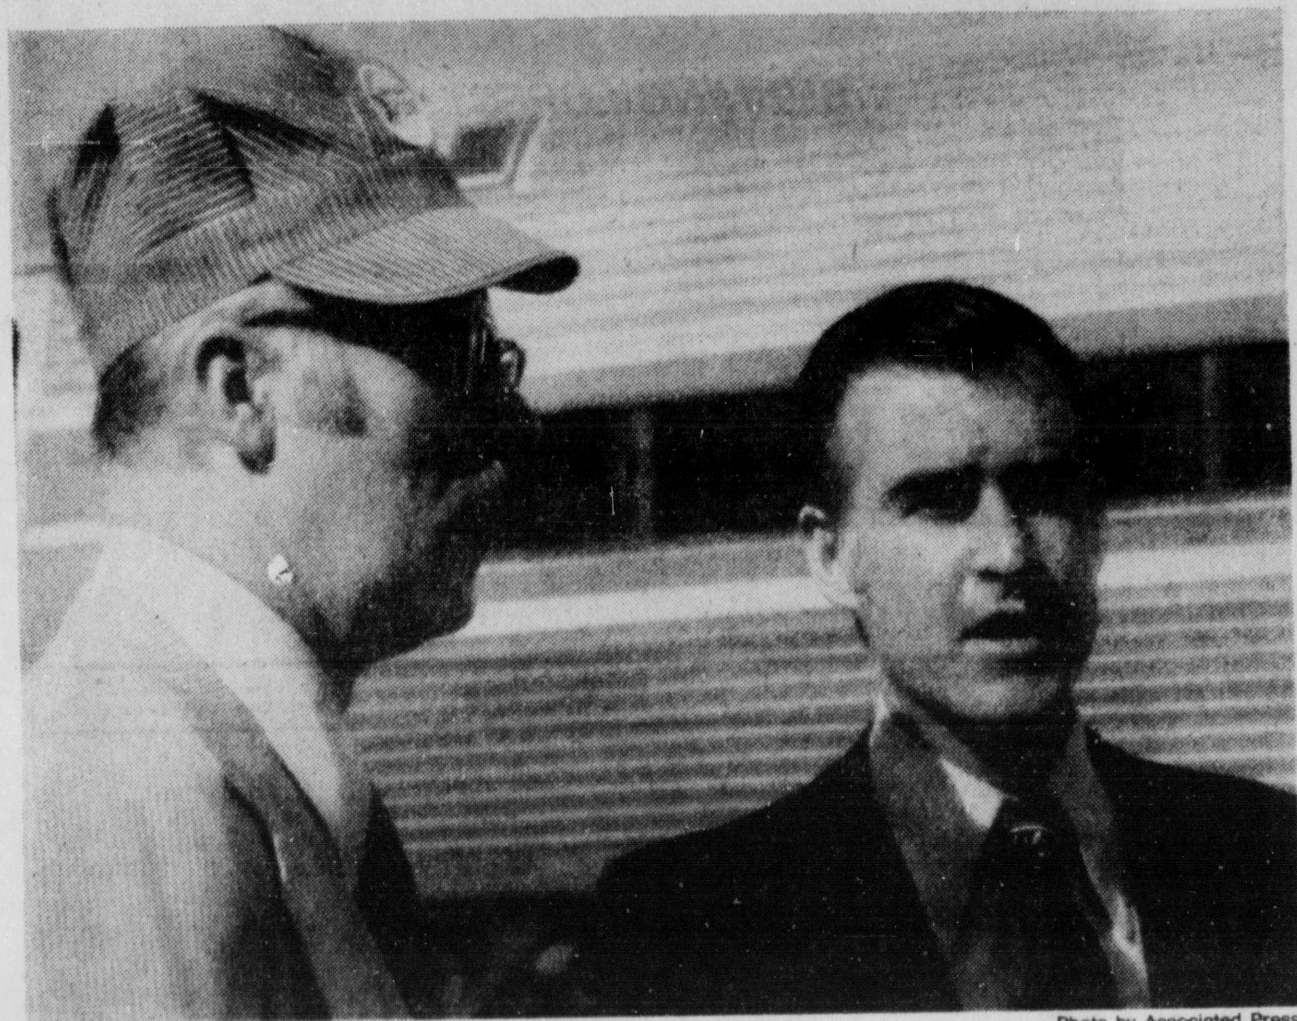

A published report over the weekend said four Democratic office holders in California have been trying to discourage Brown from opposing a re-election bid by Carter.

At the depot, a reporter asked about political plans for 1980 and was told by Brown: "I've made it a fundamental policy not to try to make decisions before I get to them. I have not made a final decision on running for governor. Beyond that, it's silly to speculate."

"I admire his initiative in the energy area, and those who somehow want to bootstrap themselves into power brokers between the President and myself are just barking up the wrong tree."

"My contacts with the President are going to be direct and not through some secondary figures who enjoy generating speculation."

Brown entered several residential primaries late in the 1976 race for the Democratic nomination but said later he was too late to make a serious stand.

Dual checkpoints are proposed for border

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Travelers would have to stop at checkpoints both going and coming across the Mexican border under a system being proposed by California law enforcement officials.

Dual checkpoints would help stem the "almost unchecked" flow of stolen property and autos across the Mexican border, California Atty. Gen. Evelle Younger told a border crime conference Saturday.

New outbound checkpoints would be similar to those currently manned by U.S. customs officers to screen people entering the United States.

Younger said California may be the first state to initiate the outbound checkpoints, but authorities from Texas, Arizona and New Mexico also expressed strong support for the idea.

"It might be unpopular at first, especially if the checkpoints create traffic jams and long waiting lines, but the system could work," a spokesman for Younger said, adding that they "would be like those security setups in airports. People griped like hell about them, but they sure put an end to hijacking."

Other proposals discussed by participants in the conference included tougher sentences for convicted smugglers of illegal aliens, a coordinated state and federal effort to deal with false identification documents, and the development of a positive identification system for undocumented aliens.

Younger also urged the federal government to take active leadership in finding and financing solutions to the massive problems created by border crime.

He also ordered his staff to set up regular meetings between U.S. and Mexican law enforcement officials to work on mutual problems.

Sagebrush Annie soars to record

DEL MAR (AP) — Sagebrush Annie trained for only a week and still soared a record 15 feet, 5 inches in the 24th annual Jumping Frog Jamboree, a preliminary to the championships at Angels Camp in Calaveras County.

The credit must also go to the trainer, Doug Offenheiser, he said after Sunday's competition involving almost 1,000 frogs. Offenheiser, 40, is a plaster repairman and bachelor with 450 frogs who says he communicates with them.

"I think I have ESP or something," Offenheiser said.

An estimated $2,000 was raised in the frog jump for cancer research.

Bids for tax-exempt status are increasing

SACRAMENTO (AP) — The Sacramento Union says that with increasing property taxes causing widespread concern, the number of organizations seeking tax-exempt status is rising.

In a Sunday story, the newspaper said nongovernmental property tax exemptions valued at nearly $2.4 billion were removed from the tax roles statewide last year, an increase of more than $200 million over 1975.

By state law, exemptions are allowed on "property used exclusively for religious, hospital, scientific or charitable purposes owned and operated by community chests, funds, foundations or corporations organized and operated for (such) purposes."

Among organizations denied exemptions in Sacramento County since 1976 are the Aquarian Effort, the Eta Gamma Omega branch of Alpha Kappa Alpha sorority, Federation of Neighborhood Organizations, Fellowship of Christian Athletes, Pyramid Church of Truth and Light, Jensen Botanical Gardens, Legislative Birdwatchers, Metaphysical Science Center, Peach Tree High School, Pets and Pals, Sacramento Pentacostal Holiness Church, Sacramento Regional Arts Council, Society of Clinical Social Workers, and Sunrise Little League, the Union said.

Mexico's gas could help ease shortages

TIJUANA, MEX. (AP) — Mexican natural gas could help alleviate California fuel shortages and President Jose Lopez Portillo has indicated he would approve such sales, according to California Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr.

"Mexico is now exploring and developing its natural gas potential, and I believe it would be mutually beneficial for sales arrangements to be entered into between California and the Republic of Mexico," Brown said following his 45-minute private meeting with Portillo here Saturday.

The two leaders also discussed illegal drug traffic across the border. Brown said Lopez Portillo castigated the United States for demanding that Mexico halt the production of marijuana and heroin poppy crops while American drug manufacturing firms pour out addictive pharmaceuticals.

The issue of illegal aliens also came up during the discussions, but Brown played down those talks.

By two California economists

Drought impact questioned

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Two California economists say this year's drought probably won't hurt the state as much economically as has been predicted.

They were quoted Sunday in The Sacramento Bee.

Eric Thor of the University of California at Berkeley said the price of fresh vegetables may rise in late summer and early fall, but he doesn't see any major price increases for other crops.

Thor had earlier predicted higher costs for rice, beef, fruit and other products. But he now says fruits and vegetables for canning will be in ample supply. And while beef prices may rise late in the year, "that's not due just to the present drought. It's due to a couple of years of drought and it's due to drought in other areas of the country."

Thor said dairy farmers are paying more for feed, but this doesn't mean the state Department of Food and Agriculture will permit boosts in milk prices.

Pauline Sweezy, chief economist for the state Department of Finance, said the drought loss, even in farm income, should be only about $500 million, and a preliminary study shows there might not be a large impact on the state as a whole.

The Department of Food and Agriculture's most recent estimate of the loss was between $1.2 billion and $1.4 billion.

Mrs. Sweezy added: "There's a possibility that farm income will not erode at all because higher prices may offset reduced volume. You have not only higher prices but, because of the reduced volume, reduced production expenses. So net farm income could hold up relatively well."

Glomar in mothballs awaiting decision

SUISUN CITY (AP) — The Glomar Explorer, specially built to raise a Soviet submarine in 1974, is in mothballs near San Francisco waiting for a decision on her future use.

John Pottinger, the Maritime Administration's mothball fleet supervisor, recently showed the ship to two staff members of The Sacramento Bee, who said they were the first reporters aboard since her arrival four months ago.

Their story Sunday said Pottinger rubbed his hand fondly along the railing of the 36,000-ton ship and said, "Such a marvelous and clean new ship with such great capabilities. What a waste to have her here."

After costing a reported $550 million, the Glomar Explorer was operated for the Central Intelligence Agency under the cover of Global Marine Development, Inc., a subsidiary of Howard Hughes' Summa Corp.

It is now in the hands of the U.S. Navy. But upkeep is costing $300,000 a year — $3,500 a month just for electricity to run security lighting all around her.

The Bee said the National Science Foundation is awaiting word from its board of directors in Washington, D.C., on a request for up to $5 million to study the feasibility of a 10-year deep-ocean drilling program.

NSF manager for the Ocean Sediment Coring Program, Dr. Peter E. Wilkness, was quoted as saying this could include conversion of the ship at the cost of up to $52 million, although it would cost about $110 million to build a new ship for the research.

There's also a possibility she will be used for mining the ocean floor for metal nodules, which would require a less-expensive conversion, The Bee said.

The story quoted Rep. Robert L. Leggett, D-Calif., who represents the district, as saying, "She's a treasure hunter and that should be exploited. How many ships were lost during World War II? Literally thousands. There is much to be recovered."

State briefs

Fire chars brush area

LAKEPORT (AP) — More than 1,800 acres have been burned off the watershed in an effort to recharge Lakeport's three wells.

The U.S. Bureau of Land Management stopped the burning in the Cow Mountain Recreation Area late last week.

By Sunday, no increase in well water had been noticed. But proponents of the plan, which is endorsed by Lakeport and Lake County, say the burned area should be more like 15,000 acres.

Vital water pump repaired

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Officials report that workers have repaired a broken pump which had reduced Los Angeles city water supplies from the Colorado River by 300 acre-feet per day for nearly a week.

Joel Schwarz, a spokesman for the Metropolitan Water District, said that after six days of work at the Hinds Pumping Plant in Indio, the broken pump, one of the oldest in the Colorado River Aqueduct System, was working by late Saturday.

Duarte pair arrested

DUARTE (AP) — Two men have been booked for investigation of a murder committed five years ago.

Six booked in murder case

PICO RIVERA (AP) — Six persons, three of them female, were booked for investigation of murder in the death of Carlos Ramos, 32, of Pico Rivera.

Authorities said all six were taken into custody yesterday, 24 hours after Ramos was cut down by shotgun fire from a passing car while he stood in front of his home with a friend, James Garcia.

Sheriff's deputies said Garcia, 27, was wounded in the shooting.

Those arrested were identified as Alfred Walters, 20; Arthur Calvillos, 20, and Olivia Conteras, 20, all of Highland Park, and one male and two female juveniles.

'Human Fly' plans trip

MOJAVE (AP) — A man who calls himself the "Human Fly" is looking forward to his next feat after riding on the outside fuselage of a DC8 commercial jet traveling at 300 miles an hour, a spokesman said.

Promoter David Levine calls the man "the masked anonymous daredevil," and said Saturday's feat "is a stepping stone to a more spectacular aerial event."

Levine said the man, who wants to remain unidentified for promotional reasons, used a method of controlled breathing during the flight in which the jet reached an altitude of 1,500 feet. The "Human Fly" strapped himself onto the aircraft for the half-hour flight.

Linden, 22, of 1038 Highland Court, Upland, and Duane B. Pefley, 41, of 534 Cedar Crest Ave., Claremont.

Mrs. Linden and her baby, Carrie, were treated at San Antonio Community Hospital. Pefley told highway patrol officers he would see his own doctor.

Three Corona residents were hurt when a car driven by Juan Medelopez, 17, also of Corona, crashed into a stop sign Saturday night on the Chino-Corona Road at Cucamonga Road, Chino area. Guy W. Mikesell, 16, of 1080 Terrace Drive, Upland, was hurt slightly when his car ran into a picket fence and telephone pole on Terrace Drive east of Park Boulevard, Upland area, Saturday night. He was taken to San Antonio Community Hospital for treatment.

Chaffey 'tiger' damaged

Three men have been arrested by Ontario police in connection with the partial destruction of the Chaffey High School "tiger" in front of the school early Sunday morning.

Police said damage to the Chaffey High School's stone mascot, including the destruction of its tail and damage to the head, was estimated at $1,500.

Police said the incident was reported early Sunday morning by several students and residents who saw three men walk onto the campus with tire irons and proceed to smash the "tiger." After knocking the tail off the statue, the vandals fled to a nearby car. The license number of the car was later traced to a home in Alta Loma.

Police said that the suspect car was located later with three men inside. Officers who searched the vehicle reported finding pieces of the statue and a tire iron in the vehicle.

Arrested for investigation of felony malicious mischief were: Terrence Shawn McGowan, 19, of Ontario; Glenn Kevin Wolfe, 19, of Ontario; and William Dale Alwin, 18, of Ontario.

Pomonan shot; said critical

A 16-year-old Pomona youth, wounded Saturday night outside the Palomares Community Center at 491 E. Arrow Hwy., was reported in critical condition this morning.

The victim, Jessie Gomez, was shot in the right side of his head twice. He was being treated in Pomona Valley Community Hospital's intensive-care unit.

Police reported that Gomez was standing outside the building when he was hit by two of perhaps six shots fired from a moving car. One other bullet struck a parked car near the location where the teen-ager was standing.

Witnesses said there were four or five male Latinos inside the car as it entered the parking lot. The driver passed the building where a dance was in progress, and then made a U-turn and passed again. As he did, the shots were fired, apparently from the back seat. The weapon was believed to be a small-caliber firearm. The driver turned into Arrow Highway after the shooting and sped away.

The Pomona youth may have suffered serious brain damage, a specialist told police later.

'Fort' burned after stolen goods found

Upland police this morning were investigating a "fort" built by juveniles off a dirt road north of Holiday Rock Co. that burned down Sunday night after officers recovered a large amount of stolen property from the structure.

Police said they were called to the area Sunday evening by a resident who reported two boys and two girls "under the influence of drugs" near a wooden fort in a field. When officers arrived, a large number of juveniles in the area was dispersed. Officers checking the inside of the fort found a number of city street signs and General Telephone Co. property that had been stolen in recent weeks. The officers removed some of the items and left.

Several hours later, the Upland Fire Department responded to the area on a reported brush fire. When firemen arrived they found the fort and brush nearby on fire. The fire was quickly brought under control. Firemen suspect arson.

Liquor store hit by three armed youths

Three youths armed with pistols robbed Top Hat Liquors of approximately $1,000 late Saturday night, Pomona police reported.

The holdup, at 565 N. Dudley St., occurred shortly before 11 o'clock. An employee told police that the three entered, drew their weapons and demanded money.

Witnesses said all three arrived in an automobile and parked in front of the store. But when they fled, they ran away, leaving the car still parked at the curb. Police impounded it.

The leader was described as black, about 18, 5 feet 8, weighing 150 pounds. He wore a blue and white knit cap, denim trousers and a blue, turtleneck sweater.

Unidentified woman shot

Sheriff's deputies today said that an unidentified woman was shot in Valinda shortly before 1 a.m. and they said she was not expected to survive.

For that reason, sheriff's homicide detectives took over the investigation.

The victim, identified only as a 24-year-old woman, was found by passersby in the 17000 block of Dubeso Street. She had been shot in the head, deputies said.

The woman was taken to Queen of the Valley Hospital in West Covina and transferred later to County-USC Medical Center. Her condition there was termed critical.

she did not see the victim, Jennifer Putty, inside the small vehicle on the sidewalk behind her car.

Jennifer, who lives nearby at 2816 Marco Court, sustained facial injuries and injuries to her upper body. She was taken to Pomona Valley Community Hospital where she was reported in fair condition.

Bad weather hampers capping runaway well

STAVANGER, Norway (AP) — American experts went ahead today with preparations to cap the runaway well spewing millions of gallons of crude oil into the North Sea. They hoped to do the job by Wednesday and were working against an unfavorable weather forecast.

"Our plan for plugging the leakage continues according to schedule, and the weather today is still very good," said a spokesman for the Phillips Petroleum Co., which operates the well 180 miles off the Norwegian coast.

"The barge Shocow is alongside the rig with necessary technical and hydraulic equipment. The two Adair firefighters will enter the rig again later today and start preparations for the plugging work. It may still take some days to complete the dangerous work."

Boots Hansen and Richard Hattenberg, two of famed oil well firefighter Red Adair's men, were put aboard the oilcovered drilling rig atop the well Sunday.

They reported that the leak was on the rig itself and that the underwater portion of the well was undamaged. It was hoped that the flow could be stopped by a device called a Christmas tree, a multi-valve cap that is put atop new wells to stop the oil flow until production plans are decided.

Another spokesman for Phillips estimated the capping operation would take one to three days, depending on the weather.

After blowing 8 to 10 knots from the north and northeast during the weekend, the wind shifted this morning and dropped to a very light twoknot breeze from the south.

But "the wind will increase gradually and by midnight it is expected to reach more than 10 knots," the Norwegian Meteorological Institute said. "Tuesday and Wednesday we expect it to increase to light gale force from the south and southwest."

"This will not have much influence on the drifting of the main oil slick, but it may make working conditions aboard the rig more difficult for the experts."

Gummo Marx rites today

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Gummo Marx, least known of the five famous Marx brothers, was to be buried today at the same cemetery where two of his brothers lie.

Gummo, whose real name was Milton, died Thursday in Palm Springs at the age of 84. Funeral services were to be private.

The services were scheduled at Forest Lawn Mortuary in Glendale, where Chico and Harpo Marx are buried. Chico died in 1961 and Harpo in 1964.

Gummo's death leaves only Groucho, 86, and Zeppo, 74.

Gummo never appeared before the cameras, but played in a few vaudeville acts with his comical brothers before going into the dress business.

He became the business manager and agent for the brothers when they moved from New York to Hollywood in 1933.

Trustees planning study session

The Pomona school board will hold a two-day special study session at Kellogg West on the Cal Poly campus the weekend of May 14 and 15 with members of the administrative cabinet.

Plans call for the board and cabinet to discuss priorities, long-range planning, personnel and procedural matters. Additionally, the board has set aside time for meetings with the superintendent in private.

Cost of the two-day session will be approximately $400.

The board will hold a special session on the budget for 1977-78 May 31 at 6:30 p.m. in the board room of the Education Center, 800 S. Garey Ave., Pomona. The board was to have been presented with preliminary budgets this week, but the computer, which the district shares with other districts in a consortium through the Claremont school district, has been malfunctioning for the past 10 days according to Supt. Charles Carpenter.

On April 26 the board will hold a special meeting to assess its computer and data processing needs for the coming years. The Claremont group is now making a pitch to purchase new computer equipment, but the Pomona schools are expected to consider purchase and establishment of its own computer system.

Paramount signs up MTM team

LOS ANGELES (AP) — MTM Productions has not only lost "The Mary Tyler Moore Show" but its top creators as well. Paramount Pictures announced the signing of James L. Brooks, David Davis and Ed Weinberger to a contract to produce TV series, specials and feature movies. The trio participated in the creating, writing and producing of "The Mary Tyler Moore Show," "Phyllis" and "Rhoda."

The recital is in partial fulfillment of requirements for his master's degree in music at CGS.

CLARINET
Clarinetist Albert R. Rice, a master's degree candidate at Claremont Graduate School, will give a recital in Bridges Hall, Pomona College, at 8:15 p.m. Thursday. Admission is free.

Rice, accompanied by Kathleen Ryan, pianist, will play Brahms' Sonata No. 2 and Spohr's "Fantasie und Variationen," in the first part of the program.

After intermission, he will be accompanied by Michael Zearott on piano and Daniel Strang on violin in three selections by Bartok. Rice will also play Bucchi's "Concerto per Clarinetto Solo" and Martinu's "Sonatina."

LUCKY SEVEN — Dennis Weaver, dressed for his starring role in TV's McCloud, looks back now on seven years as the marshall on leave from New Mexico to help out the New York police. "The show often stretches the believable," he admits, "but we keep it humorous and that helps the ratings."

Pomona sets song recital

Baritone Frank Farris, Pomona College student, will give his senior recital in Bridges Hall at 8:15 Tuesday. Admission is free. He will be accompanied by Margery S. Briggs, professor of music. The program includes English songs by Purcell and Arne, the recitative and aria "O ruddier than the cherry" from Handel's "Acis and Galatea," and the song cycle by Benjamin Britten, "Songs and Proverbs of William Blake." Farris will also sing Ravel's set of songs, "Don Quichotte a Dulcinee," Poulenc's song cycle "Le Bestiaire," and five songs in Russian by Tchaikovsky and Stravinsky.

Though majoring in mathematics, Farris has been active in the musical life of the college throughout his four years at Pomona, and serves as president of the Men's Glee Club. He has recently been elected to Phi Beta Kappa, and has been named as a national alternate for the Lucretia Fellowship. For three years he served the Pomona College Choir as piano accompanist.

Hard hat, pony tails mix well in Claremont

By CONRAD CASLER
PB Correspondent

That perky blond pony tail sticking out from under a tree trimmer's hardhat high up in Claremont's Indian Hill Boulevard elms doesn't belong to a crewman in drag.

It's Tamara "Tammy" Pence, 23, of Ontario, working a 10-week senior project internship for Claremont out of Cal Poly Pomona.

Miss Pence began her internship three weeks ago working as a groundsman and custodian. She'll be spending the next seven weeks working most jobs, a week at a time, in the parks and recreation department.

Although she's putting in 40 hours a week free for her senior project, she is paid part-time worker for San Bernardino County at the new Prado Regional Park south of Chino.

Miss Pence, an arboriculture major at Cal Poly, is unsure what specialty in parks and recreation work she will enter upon graduation next year, but it probably will not be swinging from trees Tarzan-style as she is now.

How do the men in Claremont's tree crews accept the intern?

"They're just great," Miss Pence said. "They always ask me if I think something will be too strenuous for me or to try to help in little ways."

"She's one of the best beginners I've ever seen," tree crew foreman Marty Anderson said.

Travel film lists famous 'locations'

William Stockdale will present his color travel film, "Pathways Through Literary America" tonight at 7:45 p.m. in the Education Center auditorium, 800 S. Garey Ave., Pomona.

The film presents a series of locations featured and inhabited by leading American writers, from the New England of Robert Frost to John Steinbeck's California and the Hartford, Conn. home of Mark Twain.

Also shown will be scenes dealing with John Greenleaf Whittier, Zane Grey and Carl Sandburg.

Stockdale, a Yale University graduate in English and journalism, began producing films in 1950.

$43 to $49 million project

Supplemental water study slated for public meeting

By BOB NAGEY
PB Staff Writer

A new proposal to bring supplemental water to the valley from Northern California when this drought is over will be aired at a public meeting May 3 at the San Dimas City Hall.

The over-all project is expected to cost from $43 to $49 million, depending on how it is financed, according to William C. Leech, president of the sponsoring Pomona Valley Municipal Water District.

The meeting has been called for 7 p.m. District officials are expected to explain alternate ways of raising money for the huge project, an offshoot of a $35 million bond issue which lost at the polls 1½ years ago.

"For almost two years the PVMWD has been studying alternative approaches to meeting our area's growing use of imported water," Leech explained. "At two earlier meetings this year we looked at more than 25 possible approaches."

He asked all participating agencies in the valley as well as every interested individual to contribute ideas to the proposal.

Progress Bulletin

Pomona, California ■ Monday, April 25, 1977

The project, as proposed, calls for the construction of a water treatment plant and associated facilities, including pipelines, in northern Claremont and northeast Diamond Bar. Long term facilities also would include construction of a large reservoir in Tonner Canyon in the hills beyond Diamond Bar, that would serve the Diamond Bar, Walnut and Rowland Heights area as well as relocation of the district's current treatment plant.

The district also would buy reclaimed water distribution facilities in the Pomona-Walnut area as part of a total water supply management concept.

Part of the construction costs would come from the district's accumulated reserves, Leech said.

The over-all project could be financed through one bond issue or through a "building block" pay-as-you-go concept with several bond issues, he explained.

Although the area is now getting sufficient water from the Colorado River, district officials feel there is great need for the supplemental Northern California water as insurance against growth. Moreover, water experts say, the northern water has a much higher quality than the one which comes from the Colorado River.

The PVMWD supplies imported water to Pomona, Claremont, La Verne, San Dimas, Walnut, Diamond Bar, Rowland Heights, Covina and Glendora. It gets its water from the Metropolitan Water District.

Special project cuts loom

By DAN NIEBRUGGE

Approximately $2 million may be chopped from the Pomona school district's special projects budget next year if its Emergency School Aid Act (ESAA) application is rejected again after its second submission next Thursday.

Presently in its third year as a funded project in the district, ESAA was originally funded for $1.5 million but rose to well over $2 million this year with the ESAA basic and pilot projects combined. If the ax should finally fall, both projects would be lost to the district. ESAA funds jobs for approximately 150 district employees, 80 of whom are certificated.

Should the applications not be accepted, the district has already made a commitment to rehire through attrition as many of these employees as possible and place the remainder.

The district's director of special projects, C. Joseph Barfield explained that over the past three years Pomona's ESAA grant from the federal government has been the fifth largest in the nation.

He said that ESAA was originally designed as social desegregation legislation to reduce and overcome the effects of racial isolation.

The federal grants provide funds for parent involvement, special reading and math programs at the third through sixth and seventh and ninth grade levels, a history and culture of minorities program, the ESAA Pilot House for expelled and soon to be expelled students, and a curriculum assessment program to study the presentation of minorities and women in the curriculum.

Because of ESAA's unusual composition and design, said Barfield, the grant is overlooked by two different government agencies: the Office of Civil Rights (OCR) and the Office of Education, both departments in Health, Education and Welfare.

Barfield said the district has been notified the grant failed to win approval at its first reading at OCR. The federal office found complaint with the organization of the project, stating it had too many objectives, too general, and with the relationship of the activities to the objectives of the project and evaluation model. Barfield's staff is now working to complete rewriting of half the thousand or so pages making up the application.

"Three state agencies have cited our programs as outstanding and exemplary programs," said Barfield. "The delinquency prevention program now underway by the California State Department of Education is based on our pilot program. What we are doing is good."

All that glitters is glass

By ED PRATHER
PB Staff Writer

For young men to invest their time, money and energy in a hobby and then turn it into a business is not the most unusual story ever to come along.

It's been told before. A music fanatic ends up owning his own stereo dealership. An auto buff becomes the ace mechanic of his own repair shop.

It can happen with almost any contemporary fad from surfboards to CB radios, right?

Wrong. At least in the case of Pomona residents Steve Montgomery, 19, and Allen Flatt, 23.

Their hobby turned business is not at all contemporary. In fact, most of the Depression era glass they collect is older than the two of them put together.

"It's a challenging hobby," said Montgomery, who along with Flatt refers to their hobby-business as Glass Galore.

He estimated they currently have well over 1,000 individual pieces.

The pair work the graveyard shift at a business in Buena Park, devoting the remainder of their waking hours during the week to buying, selling and trading the 1930s glassware. They participate in professional shows and operate booths at swap meets and exhibitions.

"We don't make a lot of money at it," said Montgomery. But they aren't losing any either, considering that they often find people literally giving away the old glassware just to get rid of it — pieces that can be resold for $5 or $6 each to the thousands of collectors now interested in Depression glass.

"That's what makes it a collectable item — so many people have just thrown it away in the past. It gets harder every year to put together a complete set of one pattern," said Flatt.

Depression glass was manufactured primarily in the eastern states during the Great Depression. It was given away as promotional items or sold for pennies in dime stores.

It was produced in hundreds of patterns and colors of varying qualities, some in massive quantities and some limited to certain geographic areas.

Montgomery said dealers sometimes display an item not for sale in the hopes that someone will recognize the pattern and provide information about where and when it was made.

Women gain, ERA or not

Back in the early years of the century, a suffragette was defined as "one who has ceased to be a lady and has not yet become a gentleman."

Women did eventually achieve "gentleman" status in 1920 by virtue of the 19th Amendment, which accorded them full voting equality with men. Today, it is the heirs of the suffragettes, the women's "libbers," who are having a hard time winning respectability.

When the proposed Equal Rights Amendment was passed by Congress on March 22, 1972, its ratification by the states seemed assured. Who in these modern times would be against something which stated simply that "Equality of rights under the law shall not be denied or abridged by the United States or by any state on account of sex"?

Off to a fast and furious start, the ERA was approved by 35 states within the next five years. But there it became stuck — three states short of the 38 necessary to make it a part of the Constitution.

Nearly all the states have now spoken on the amendment, and 12 have rejected it, some of them more than once. Latest setback was in Florida, where after an emotional debate the state senate voted it down for the second time.

This was the fourth rejection of the ERA since January, and many fear it may have been fatal. In the face of solidifying resistance, supporters of the amendment have less than two years left to reach the magic number of 38 before the approval deadline of March 22, 1979.

Why this resistance?

Much of it can be attributed to an effective campaign mounted by ERA opponents, who have raised all kinds of fears that it would deprive women of many of their traditional privileges, undermine the family, lead to homosexual marriages and unisex public lavatories and send women into combat in time of war.

It has also been noted that most of the defeat for the ERA have always been more conservative and where the idea that men should be gentlemen and women should be ladies is still highly honored. (Florida, for example, also voted against the 19th Amendment in 1919).

But not a little of the reaction must be attributed to "Ms.-takes" by women's liberation leaders themselves, who came on too strong a few years ago as man-hating, housewife-despising radicals.

Fairly or unfairly, that image became fixed in the public mind, and later playing down of the male-chauvinist-pig approach has not been able to erase it. It is significant that the more recent opposition to the ERA has not been among men but among women.

Yet most of these same women support the philosophy behind the Equal Rights Amendment, if not the amendment itself. Thus failure of the ERA, if that is what the Florida vote portends, will not mean failure of the women's movement. It has already won immense gains for women in terms of equal pay and equal opportunities, and it will win more in the future as it continues to focus on wiping out every vestige of unfair sexual discrimination.

The first suffragettes did not live to see their cause triumph. If it is any consolation to their counterparts today, a later generation of Americans, more confident and secure about the idea of equal sexual rights, will vindicate them, too.

Think on these things

When I think of what you have given me in courage and strength and hope . . . I often wonder, do we ever give as much as we get . . . Do we ever realize to our fullest capacity what others mean to us? . . . Is there any way of expressing how important they are?

Someday has always been a good tag to hang on our intentions . . . someday I will tell you what your steadiness has made of my life . . . someday you will know that because of you I am never alone . . . someday I will be able to give as I am given to . . . and I would do it today, except that it's going to take a lot of somedays to do all I want to do . . . to say what I want to say and feel what I want to feel in its deepest sense . . . so stay with me because that someday is beginning right now.

What do you believe about yourself? If you have aged — do you think age has given you wisdom? Or has it made you crochety in the belief that someone owes you more than you're getting?

If you're young — are you building a foundation of well-being for a happy life? Or are you rebellious and resentful because someone wants you to be respectable?

If you're poor, are you seeing yourself overcoming impossible odds and prospering in spite of everything that says it can't be done?

Like attracts like — we are what we believe. We can change that belief and in simply moments change the whole course of our lives.

Day of reckoning foreseen

Dear Editor:

More than a decade ago my wife and I stood on an overpass looking in amazement down at California freeway traffic. Almost bumper-to-bumper. Four abreast. The lines moving at high speed and reaching to the horizon both ways.

We said then that with a doubt this had to be the most extravagant waste of our nation's energy one could see anywhere. Especially when we noted that each car weighed in the neighborhood of two tons and was serving only to move one or two people from one place to another.

We said then that such an incredible squandering of technology and precious energy must some day come to an end — that our nation could no longer afford it. And, lo and behold, it has rolled around in my lifetime.

Yes, it is true. Californians are different. We have our RVs, our high-pollution motorcycles and off-road playthings and we take for granted what in any other state would be incredible luxury. Only last night I heard a TV commentator wail plaintively that a new gas tax would be a great hardship to the California poor, since many of them had only been able to spend three or four hundred dollars for a poor-mileage, high pollution car and could not afford to run it. Poverty in California is indeed grinding. No? But I do not think we will need to expect special dispensation from the other states on the grounds of our greater need for luxurious living. It is possible they will exempt us from what they are having to endure, but a little doubtful.

I think the argument is a little weak that businessmen will pass on to consumers any expense they suffer from higher energy cost. How much do they charge now? Everything they can get. How much will they charge if energy goes up? Everything they can get. All that would result in would be more openings for competitors and a fairer distribution. Prices will go up anyway, no matter what we do.

I have to confess a small sadness at the approaching day when the Lone Ranger rides his multi-millibuck Detroit gas hog into the sunset never to return. An era will have passed. But perhaps the starker age to follow may be a better one. We shall see. And that soon.

Reunion in San Clemente

WASHINGTON — In the comic strip "Doonesbury," the old Nixon hands got together to relive the wondrous days of Watergate. Some time in the fall, believe it or not, it will happen in real life.

By solemn count, 132 erstwhile Nixon aides have formed a club, which they call the "February Group." They took the name from the month in 1975 when the founders — Nixon loyalists who had escaped the slammer or were out on bail — established a loose association.

A poll of the membership indicated that 72 were interested in chartering a plane for a pilgrimage to visit the Recluse of San Clemente. It almost became a patriotic pilgrimage next Fourth of July, except that too many of them had already scheduled family vacations that week.

Instead, they decided to select a convenient week after Labor Day. Then they will fly to San Clemente for a few days of reminiscing with Richard Nixon about the good old days.

The idea for the reunion with Nixon grew out of a conversation between ex-White House aide W. Dewey Glower and the former President himself. Nixon was so pleased to learn about the February Group that he invited them to San Clemente.

But he cautioned solicitously: "I hope you won't tie the group too closely to me. I wouldn't want it to hurt you."

In a dispatch to his former Nixon teammates, Glower wrote in the familiar, old style: "With a Democratic administration and a Democratic Congress here, my son suggested that signs be placed at all entrances into Washington, D.C., stating:

"WARNING, the thinking people of the United States have determined that the actions of a Democratic Congress with the Rubber Stamp of a Democratic Administration may be hazardous to your health."

The February Group, which meets quarterly, has several minor Watergate figures on its rolls. But the only major Watergate personality, who has appeared at the meetings, is hatchetman-turned-evangelist Charles "Chuck" Coison. John Dean, who blew the whistle on Watergate, has not asked to join.

HAMIS HOLLER — Our April 4 column about the crowded Citizens Band radio frequencies produced some loud static from the ham radio operators. We reported that 300,000 hams have 100 times more airspace than is available to the nine million CB enthusiasts and that some federal officials who regulate CB radio "have traditionally been hams."

The story triggered an outpouring of mail from the offended hams. They pointed out that hams relay vital health and medical information during natural disasters, that hams are more scrupulous about policing themselves than are CB operators, that hams have helped bring about scientific advances in radio communication and that the assignment of radio frequencies is heavily influenced by international agreements.

Not the least indignation of the ham operators was Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz. We'll let him speak for his fellow amateur radiomaniacs. He complained that the CB enthusiasts often operate without a license and amplify their transmitters beyond the five-watt limit.

They have also "abused the system," he charged, "in complete objection to all concepts of decency and gentlemanliness on the air. While this doesn't apply across the board, there are enough offenders that I don't care how many frequencies they have, they are slowly going to destroy their own function . . ."

No clout, Meany strikes out

When George Meany says his biggest worry is jobs, you better believe him. He could be talking about his own.

Ironically, by helping Jimmy Carter get the work he wanted so badly, the crusty old labor czar lost a lot of clout as boss-man of the AFL-CIO. His job record hasn't been so good lately.

In fact, he's batting zero. He knows it and he doesn't like it. And he's aware that the young lions are growling that maybe it's time for Old George to go. Gracefully, if possible, but the sooner the better.

But for Old George, the timing is bad. At 82 and after a quarter of a century of dominating the labor scene, he may be more than ready to pack up his tools. (If he didn't forget to bring them.)

Still, he wants to go out in some kind of glory. Which he hasn't seen much of since that unpredictable whippersnapper sat down in the Oval Office.

Mr. Carter has been a great disappointment to Mr. Meany, who, after years of Nixon and Ford, figured he finally had the best Democratic president money can buy.

But Jimmy refused to stay bought. One labor rebuff after another came winging out of the White House. Lots of smiles and polite talk . . . and then zap.

As usual, Mr. Meany took it personally. Words like "shameful," "disgraceful" and "betrayal" peppered his public pronouncements.

Every loss has brought with it a little less power for organized labor. And to most everybody's way of thinking, Meany is "Mr. Labor," a sentiment he doesn't exactly go out of his way to shoot down.

But that image is full of holes these days. And the younger labor leaders are beginning to twitch and talk among themselves about maybe George has "been to the mountain one too many times."

His latest defeat on the minimum wage proposal was a double blow. Not only did his ex-buddy pass up his demand for $3 an hour (just for openers), other folks are beginning to catch on to why Meany wants a higher minimum wage.

And that wasn't part of his plan. The real reason labor is lobbying for more money at the bottom of the scale, says Meany critics, is that it's a cynical gimmick to wangle higher wages for its skilled workers.

And it's getting tougher for union negotiators to wring fat pay increases out of employers when the labor pool keeps growing.

Meany was counting on his minimum wage demands to furnish him with a maximum weapon. By narrowing the gap between skilled and unskilled wages, he hoped to win big at the bargaining table.

Never mind studies that show a minimum wage creates more unemployment than it cures. Or that it works particular hardship among teen-agers. Mr. Meany's interest is in promoting the power of organized labor.

Mr. Carter did toss him one crumb. Just to prove he is not altogether unkind of the rules of the political payoff game. He agreed to let the minimum wage be indexed to go up automatically when other wages do.

But he limited the indexing to 50 per cent of the average hourly wage in manufacturing. That infuriated Meany, too; he wanted 60 per cent.

Not only that, he can read the handwriting on legislation as well as anybody else. He knows what these defeats mean to his dream of unionizing the South and of killing the right-to-work laws that let states ban union shops.

Then there was the lowest blow of all.

While he and other labor leaders were twisting congressional arms to pass the common site picketing bill (which would have let one union dispute close down an entire building project) rank-and-file union members were firing off letters to their congressmen to vote it down.

Which they did, 217 to 205. Some days it's tough to earn a buck. Even for Mr. Meany, who earns 90,000 of them a year. Not yet indexed.

Just in jest

Once, back around the start of the 20th Century, it was the school kids who expressed disapproval of vested authority by shouting obscenities at their teachers and showering them with rotten eggs. But today the American system of education is apparently doing a dramatic about-face. Such displays of vindictive temperament are no longer kids' stuff. According to news reports from Kansas City, Mo., it is not the pupils but striking high school teachers who have been shouting obscenities, throwing eggs and blocking driveways when police attempted to enforce an anti-picketing ruling. Who knows? Eventually our educators may even resort to throwing spitballs to indicate their contempt for the morons who attempt to tell them what they are supposed to do.

Battle rages over U.S. post

By EARL G. WATERS

An attempt by the dean of California's congressional delegation, John E. Moss, to favor the job-bid of his secretary into a high paying job is threatening to disturb the usual tranquility of federal patronage.

Moss has launched an all-out battle with Sen. Alan Cranston over who is to be appointed U.S. marshal in the state's Eastern District, which is comprised of 34 Northern California counties. His candidate for the $30,000 post is Robert La Roche, presently serving as a deputy marshal. His strongest qualification apparently is that his wife, Patricia, is Moss' confidential district secretary.

Normally, appointments to positions connected with the federal courts, which include judges, marshals and U.S. attorneys, are filled by incoming presidents on the recommendations of the senior U.S. senator of the state involved. Cranston, as a courtesy, submitted the names of candidates for the four marshal posts within the state to the congressmen in the districts affected.

Apparently harmony reigns in Moss of the four federal district selections but three, dissatisfied with the outcome in the Eastern District, has embarked on some mudslinging in a last-ditch maneuver to get his man, or rather his secretary's man, the job.

This despite the fact that another, Amador County Supervisor John C. Begovich, won the endorsement of four of the six congressmen in the district and Cranston as well.

Begovich, a former state senator, has a strong claim on the job. Appointed by President Lyndon Johnson, he served as the district's first U.S. marshal from 1967 until he was replaced by President Nixon in 1970. As he says, President Johnson's decision not to run for another term deprived him of the opportunity to stay on the job long enough to earn a retirement.

A colorful figure, Begovich has a distinguished record as a veteran in World War II. With the infantry in North Africa, Italy, France and Germany, he was badly wounded in two of the campaigns and collected nearly as many medals as the famed Audie Murphy. In addition to serving as a state senator and county supervisor, he also was a justice court judge.

Blinded in his desire to substitute La Roche for the candidate of the majority, Moss is seeking to portray Begovich's selection as "political," inferring that his personal choice is not. That is nonsense. Traditionally, the filling of such positions has been outright political with no bones about it.

His contention that La Roche is better qualified is also a dodge which aims at making the public believe the marshal's job requires someone with great skills in law enforcement. Over the years few who have held the jobs had any prior police experience. Actually, the job, largely one of acting as court bailiff, transporting federal prisoners and serving processes on witnesses and defendants, doesn't require it. The fact that Begovich performed the duties creditably for four years and was removed solely because of the change of political party control should resolve the issue of qualifications.

The worst aspect of the quarrel has been Moss' last-ditch injection of an incident which occurred during Begovich's former term as marshal. It involved the theft of government small arms ammunition. After thorough investigation by the FBI and the Justice Department, Begovich was completely absolved of any participation or blame. Moss' inferences to the contrary in a desperate effort to eliminate Begovich from consideration is a cheap shot unbecoming of a congressman with such lengthy experience.

Dr. Miller

Antifreeze not for parakeet

DEAR DR. MILLER: Since we were keeping our house pretty cool this year, I was keeping my parakeet warm by hiding a wee drop or two of brandy in his drinking water. At first he didn't pay any attention to it, but then he began drinking more and more water. He learned to appreciate his antifreeze. So you might want to pass along this tip to other bird owners. — C.R.

DEAR C.R.: For other frosty feathered friends your antifreeze tip is duly noted. For long-term health, however, brandy in the bottle's better than brandy in the bird. While spirits actually may have some legitimate uses in emergency situations, in the long run, birds belting brandy won't be better off than birds buttressed against the cold by other means. Liquor's quicker when it comes to cramming heat-producing calories into the system, but its depressant and liver-damaging effects turn it into a catastrophic choice for birds. It's a rare bird of any species that benefits from long-term alcohol consumption. Avians never do.

DEAR DR. MILLER: My Bernie has rheumatoid arthritis. Till now, I didn't even dream a dog could get this. Years ago, they were never able to cure my sister. Bernie's doctor says there's no cure for him either, but I was hoping maybe there was some new drug that might work that he didn't know about. — T.R.

DEAR T.R.: Unfortunately, there's no miracle cure for rheumatoid arthritis in any species yet. Drugs from aspirin to cortisone to hydroxychloroquin and penicillamine to gold are all used for relief and remission, but there is no cure. In advanced cases, joint surgery may (rarely) be justified. An affected dog should be kept thin to reduce joint stress. Physical therapy is often useful, and proper nutrition is important.

DEAR DR. MILLER: Flopsy, my rabbit, tries not to let me pick her up. When I do, she always scratches and kicks. Do you know of a way she won't mind me picking her up? — R.W.

DEAR R.W.: Why insist? Better, leave Flopsy's four feet firmly floored or grounded. She obviously prefers it that way, so pet and cuddle her on the ground to avoid the confrontation. A resisting rabbit being held may kick strongly to try to escape, and in the process, severely injure its back. You could be in danger, too, since it could inflict painful scratches and, even more painful bite wounds.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Important matters should not be finalized hastily today. In your eagerness to wrap something up you could lose some benefits.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Try to see things today for what they truly are and not what you would like them to be. The only one you're kidding is yourself.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Conditions relating to your resources are very tricky today. You could gain on the one hand, yet lose on the other.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Others are willing to help you today, but, unfortunately, they may not be the right ones to open the proper doors.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) There is opportunity around you today, but if it is ineptly handled it may not amount to much.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Be careful if doing business with friends today. One of you might wind up feeling they've been had.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Others may throw roadblocks in your path today if you fail to treat them tactfully. Woo your allies, don't wound them.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Second effort isn't your long-suit today. It's more likely you'll give up on tasks that you can't breeze right through.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Take nothing for granted in your delusion today. Things that look nifty on the surface could be very complicated.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) It might prove very unwise to let someone else make an important decision for you today. Think for yourself.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Taking on more responsibility in risky, financial ventures. Don't put her to the test.

Ann Landers

Daughter, a slob, likes privacy

Dear Ann Landers: My daughter has your column taped to her bedroom door. It's the one in which you say: "A closed bedroom door is a sign of privacy. One should knock before entering."

Delores (made-up name) is 17. Her bedroom door is ALWAYS shut, no matter what. She may be fully dressed, doing nothing, but that door is closed. God forbid my husband, son or I should enter as we are knocking! We must knock, wait until she is good and ready to ask, "Who is it?" then answer and wait until she decided whether to let us in.

I have to tell Delores when to change her bed linens, and it is I, her mother, who cleans her room. Why? Because I have tried YOUR approach (it is her room and she should clean it) and it doesn't work.

She has a parakeet that flies around outside the cage. Wherever the parakeet lands, it drops "whatever." Delores is too lazy to clean it up, so I must do it.

If I didn't go in there at least once a week and give it a thorough cleaning, the bedbugs, roaches, etc., would take over. Her room is part of my house and I am coming to you for advice. — Afraid Of The Board Of Health

Dear Afraid: If the facts you have stated are correct you have a perfect right to give the parakeet to the SPCA and enter your daughter's room to spray for roaches and other vermin. Do NOT pick up after her, however, no matter how messy the room gets.

As for knocking before entering, Delores is entitled to privacy, even though she's a slob.

Dear Ann: I've just got to write in defense of the wife of "Just Another Animal." Her husband moaned that he was "immaculate, sober and a good provider," but she cut off his sex life at age 55. She simply announced, "That's enough enough."

I'd be willing to make a bet that this guy doesn't know how to make love. I'm a 54-year-old male who is more active sexually than when I was 34. I've never heard of a female who enjoyed sex rejecting it, and it's up to the man to see that she enjoys it.

I feel sorry for the millions of frustrated females in our Puritanical society who must put up with clumsy, hung-up, selfish men. No woman will be cold and unresponsive if there is something in it for HER.

— Planned Sex Till Ninety

Dear P.S.: Well said. And now I'll make a small side bet that your letter will wind up on many a shaving mirror tomorrow morning.

Dear Ann: I am 14 and my brother Jon is 18. We took alike and everyone calls me Jon. My name is David. This gets me mad. But what really burns me up is when my mother calls me Jon. I want to be known by the name I was given at birth. What can I do about it? — David Is My Name

Dear David: Learn to live with it, Bub, because the problem is going to be with you for a long time.

I can promise you, your mom will NEVER get over the habit. My own dear mother, till the day she died, God rest her beautiful soul, called me, "Helen, Dorothy, Pauline, Esther."

Checking on the check book

One of the intriguing aspects of making out your income tax return, besides trying to figure out where you are going to get the money to pay it, is the review of the past year provided by going through your canceled checks, bills and receipts. Talk about your life flashing in front of your eyes! It's better than a diary. Or worse.

Rent checks, mortgage payments, utility bills — gas up in the winter, water down; in the summer they reverse — doctor's bills, taxes, grocery store, insurance payments, tuition fees, clothing; the list is endless. When you get your W-2 from your employer you gaze incredulously at your annual salary listed as Total FICA Wages. How could you possibly earn that much money and be broke all the time? The stack of little white checks answers that question in no uncertain terms.

That whopping check for the two-week vacation at the beach brings back memories of sun and sand, the sea breeze and the soothing rumble of the breakers at night. Little Sally got sunburned, poor dear, and Tim cut his foot on a sea shell. There is a check to the pharmacist for sunburn lotion and gauze and tape. The tremendous seafood dinner the last night shows up on one of the checks to Master Charge. Great vacation!

Car payment checks mingle with car repair bills and receipts from oil companies invoked at service stations throughout the state. One string represents our trip to Phoenix to visit the grandparents; another was when Bill drove to San Francisco during Christmas vacation. What's this huge — oh yeah, that was the new tires. Oil and Lube. Brake repair. New battery. Department of Motor Vehicles — license. Collision insurance. Municipal Court . . . er. The old family car occupies a good part of the check book.

Florist bill — wife's birthday. Check to the hospital — Sally's appendix operation. Doctor's bills. New tennis racquet. Raincoat for Bill. The check to the liquor store reminds you of that wild weekend when your old Army buddy came for a visit — wow! There's the fee for the dog license and rabies shot. A check for repairs on Sally's bicycle. Clothing store. Show repairs. Lumber company for that do-it-yourself bookcase — must get at that one of these days.

Although many of your checks bring back much of the year's activities in sharp relief, many of them provide no clue — maybe it's just as well.

"Honey, what's this check for $25 to the Bluebell?" you ask.

"I don't know," she says. "Probably one of your bars."

"Bluebell? Bluebell?"

"Oh, no — I remember. That's the store where I bought you that jacket for your birthday."

"Stationer's store — gulp? What —"

"Bill needed some supplies for college, and I bought a couple of odds and ends while I was there."

"Must have bought out the store."

"Oh, yes, I got that desk lamp, too."

"What's this Tabard Inn?"

"Don't you remember that night?"

No, probably not. We went out with the Davises and you were feeling no pain — insisted on picking up the tab. Last of the big spenders."

"Yeah, well . . ."

Some checks you'd just as soon forget.

Blood sugar factors outlined

DEAR DR. LAMB — Please tell me the difference between hypoglycemia and hyperinsulinism. For several years I had spells of passing out and was out for three hours one day and taken to the hospital.

After a lot of tests my blood sugar was down to 40. I am on a high protein, no sugar, low carbohydrate diet and am okay as long as I stay on it. My doctor told me and put on all my papers that I had hyperinsulinism but someone else said, it was just hypoglycemia.

DEAR READER—If that someone else had your problem he might not think it was just hypoglycemia.

Hypoglycemia (low blood sugar) can be caused by many factors. Liver disease is one cause. A rebound type of reaction that occurs from rapid emptying of the stomach is another cause, as may occur after a stomach operation. It can occur after drinking too much alcohol or from a variety of complex enzyme disturbances. It can also occur because of disease of the adrenal glands. Low blood sugar is a symptom not a diagnosis.

One of the causes of hypoglycemia is an overproduction of insulin. The abnormality and hence the diagnosis then is hyperinsulinism and it causes hypoglycemia. The excess insulin production lowers the blood sugar. So hyperinsulinism can cause hypoglycemia but not all cases of hypoglycemia are caused by hyperinsulinism.

—Actress Shelley Duvall, currently starring in "3 Women."

ulinism. Regardless of the cause, a severe case of true hypoglycemia that causes the problems you describe can be an important medical problem.

I am sending you The Health Letter, number 3-9, Low Blood Sugar; Hypoglycemia. Others who want this information can send 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it. Just write to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

DEAR DR. LAMB — In accordance with your Health Letter on exercise I started my exercise by walking. At first I walked slowly and gradually increased speed and distance. I am now walking five miles in 75 minutes each day.

I just noticed that about the center of my right calf a half inch bubble bulged out. It looks like a varicose vein. It disappears when I elevate the leg.

I am neither obese nor pregnant nor do I think that I have an abdominal tumor. What do I do now; decrease my walking, slow it up, stop it altogether or use an elastic bandage and keep on walking as I am doing now?

DEAR READER — That bubble which disappears when you elevate the leg is a varicose vein. Such spots are usually where a vein connects the superficial veins you can see to the deep veins inside the leg muscles. They can become over-distended into a varicosity also and sometimes are called "blow-outs."

Your walking did not cause the blow-out. The muscular contractions from walking milks the blood out of the deep veins and empties them as well as the connecting branches. Standing still would allow pressure to develop and could aggravate varicose vein problems.

You can use an elastic bandage or support stocking. It is most important when you are standing still or sitting, not while you are walking.

If the blow-out bothers you then you should see your doctor and see if he wants to tie off that vein.

One doesn't have to be fat, female, or have a tumor in the abdomen to develop varicose veins even though these factors do increase the tendency to develop them.

—Actress Shelley Duvall, currently starring in "3 Women."

Eye blinks tell male's arousal

Latest university study to be analyzed by our Love and War man is the one that seems to show how you can tell by the way a man looks at a girl whether she really intrigues him. If he stares without blinking, it's said he's not all that much turned on. But if he blinks as he looks, that means he's developing more than a passing interest. And the faster he blinks, the more intense his arousal, these scholars contend.

GOLD RECORD

Q. "Wasn't it operatic tenor Enrico Caruso who got the first gold disc for a record that sold more than a million copies?"

A. No, Caruso's "Vesti la Giubba" was the first record to sell more than a million copies, true enough, but it was band leader Glenn Miller in 1942 who was given the first gold disc. That, for "Chattanooga Choo Choo."

Q. "How wide is the mouth of the Statue of Liberty?"

A. Three feet.

Human breathing registers about 10 decibels on the sound meters. Normal conversation, maybe 45 to 75 decibels. A motorcycle, 111 decibels. A jet plane, up to 150 decibels. This comes up because a client asks how loud must a sound be before it's classified as "noise pollution." Figure anything over 85 decibels.

GESTURES

One or another of this country's presidents from time to time has undertaken some sort of symbolic gesture to show that he was truly a plain man, of the people, just folks, so to speak. Jimmy Carter walked hand in hand with his wife on Inauguration Day, then eliminated some top-level limousines. Lyndon Johnson kept turning out White House lights. Teddy Roosevelt held the first presidential press conference while getting a shave by his barber. But the one I like was Andrew Jackson's ploy. He threw out of the White House its only bathtub, saying the dabbled thing was undemocratic.

Something good in diamonds

By OSWALD and JAMES JACOBY

Jim: "Today is a rather important one for me since it is your 45th wedding anniversary."

Oswald: "We failed to discuss your 44th birthday that occurred just three weeks ago."

Jim: "How about some of your experiences in teaching mother how to play bridge?"

Oswald: "Here is a typical hand. I opened two notrump. The next player asked, 'How many points?' Mary Zita replied, 'It's supposed to be 21 or 22, but he probably has 19 or 20.' Then she bid six."

Jim: "This time 19 opposite 12 produces a good slam contract because it will make if South can score four club tricks or if something good happens in diamonds."

Oswald: "The clubs were wrong, but something good did happen in diamonds. West led his ace of spades and continued the suit. I cashed three hearts and three spades to come down to a six-card ending with just two diamonds left in my hand. Poor West had to chuck a club to keep protection for his queen-jack diamonds and I had my slam."

Ask the Jacobys

In the original Vanderbilt convention point count wasn't used and two quick tricks were required. This could mean anywhere from 7-10 high-card points with 8 as a good approximation.

Warriors get hopes revived

OAKLAND (AP) — Charles Johnson came out of the game tired, but the playoff hopes of his Golden State Warriors were revived.

"It's an exhausting thing," Johnson said of the effort expended in his career-high 28-point performance which paved the way for Golden State's 109-105 victory over the Los Angeles Lakers Sunday.

The substitute guard entered the game in the second period with the Warriors behind 29-17 and quickly discovered he had a hot hand. He had scored 10 points by halftime and the Lakers' lead was down to three points.

"If the ball is going in the basket, I'm always going to be shooting," said the former starter who hit 12 of 20 shots, including seven of 11 in a sensational 16-point final period.

"If he'd shot like that in the first two games, we probably wouldn't be leading the series," said Lakers Coach Jerry West.

Los Angeles took a 2-0 advantage by winning on its home court in the opening games of the best-of-seven National Basketball Association Western Conference semifinal series. Johnson totaled only 17 minutes playing time and made two of 10 shots in those games.

Rick Barry carried us through most of the first half and kept us in it, waiting for someone else to get the hot hand. Johnson supplied the punch we needed down the stretch," said Coach Al Attles, whose Warriors will try and even the series with a victory at home Tuesday night.

Barry had his second 40-point game of the series. A three-point play by the Warriors' captain, who was fouled while sinking a hook shot over Don Ford, sent Golden State ahead to stay 93-92 with 4:51 remaining.

Johnson, nicknamed "Jack" after former boxing champion Jack Johnson, scored six of the team's final 14 points. After 31 minutes of playing time, he said, "How do I feel? Tired, that's all."

The Lakers' Kareem Abdul-Jabbar scored 23 points but only 12 in the second half when Warriors center Cliff Ray did a good defensive job on him. Rookie Earl Tatum hit for his pro-high, 26 points, and Cazzie Russell had 25 for the Lakers.

"The Warriors applied more pressure today," said West. "No one can stop Kareem when he gets the ball. What they did was keep the ball away from him, and we had a lot of trouble getting it to him."

Before taking his team home for the off-day, West added, "We still have two more games at home in the series. I prefer our position."

Braves offering Mike Marshall

ATLANTA (AP) — Relief pitcher Mike Marshall says he left the Atlanta Braves because he was not pitching enough.

"Dave Bristol (Braves manager) just has different philosophies than mine," Marshall said Sunday, one day after leaving the team. "I have no quarrel with that, but I have a choice of whether or not I want to work that way."

The Braves placed Marshall on the disqualified list Sunday, and General Manager Bill Lucas said the team would try and trade the reliever to a club that "better suits his pitching philosophy."

Apparently the cause of Marshall's dissatisfaction has been Bristol's reliance on rookie reliever Rick Camp. Marshall agreed Sunday that Camp had "the hot hand," but added, "I have things to do other than sit on the bench and watch baseball games."

Marshall, winner of the Cy Young Award in 1974, has a 1-0 record this season in four games. But the right-hander has allowed 12 hits and has a 9.00 earned run average.

Marshall apparently became irritated Friday night when he was lifted in the seventh inning of a game against Los Angeles after allowing three straight hits and a walk. He went to the dugout, threw a bat on the field and left the park. He failed to show up for Saturday's game against the Dodgers.

Marshall, who reportedly earns $150,000 per year, said Sunday he does not need the money. "I play baseball because I love to pitch," he said.

His spot on the roster was filled by reliever Max Leon.

Marshall said of the Friday night incident: "I was so angry I didn't know what I was doing. They had a couple of hits, but I was throwing well ... I'm out there trying to get myself together, and I think Dave should have been concerned with getting me ready."

"I didn't see him throw the bat and all that," Bristol said Sunday. "I feel badly he feels the way he does ... I tried to do everything I could to use him and get him ready. We've been on two clubs together and had a good relationship. I'm shocked about this. I really am."

Dodgers put on HR show

ATLANTA (AP) — "They got theirs with men on and we got solos," Atlanta Braves Manager Dave Bristol said Sunday following a 16-6 loss to the Los Angeles Dodgers in a game which included nine home runs.

The big blow came in the eighth inning, when Ron Cey connected for a bases-loaded home run. The Dodgers scored seven runs in the inning, padding a 7-6 lead to 14-6.

Steve Garvey had a three-run shot in the third, Dusty Baker hit a two-run homer shortly after Cey's grand slam and Dodgers relief pitcher Charlie Hough and Lee Lacy each homered in the ninth. In all, Los Angeles pounded out 16 hits.

Hough's homer was his first since 1970 when he was in Class AAA baseball. The blast caused "fainting" spells in the dugout by about five Dodgers players.

"They were lying on the floor, everywhere," said Hough, laughing. "I almost passed out myself."

Atlanta's homers were hit by Jerry Royster, Jeff Burroughs, Willie Montanez and Gary Matthews, all with the bases empty.

Stan Wall, 1-1, the third Dodger pitcher, picked up the victory. Frank LaCorte, 1-1, took the loss.

The nine homers were one shy of the Atlanta Stadium record set by the Braves and Cincinnati in 1971.

Following the game, Garvey said, "We hit everything they threw up. It was ideal conditions for balls hit up in the air. But we capitalized better than they did."

Cey is enjoying one of his finest starts, hitting safely in all 14 of the Dodgers' games.

"I'm doing nothing different," he said. "This club is making it possible for me to do my thing, that's all. We've had injuries and makeshift lineups in the past, and that makes it difficult. Now, everybody is doing their job."

The victory was the ninth in the last 10 games for the Dodgers. They lead the National League West with the best record in baseball, 11-3. Two of their three losses were to the Braves, who fell to 3½ games behind in second place.

Bristol observed that the Dodgers' "getting off to this kind of start is going to make it tough on the rest of us."

Los Angeles Manager Tom Lasorda said: "I'm telling you, these guys can hit. They've got this saying, 'you can't fight an octopus because it has eight arms.' That's the way with these guys ... you can't fight all eight of 'em."

Jeff Bennett takes decathlon

By PAUL CLICK
PB Correspondent

Jeff Bennett, who lost by a mere 79 points to Steve Gough in last year's Relays, wrapped up the 19th annual Mt. San Antonio Relays by winning the decathlon.

Saturday's fine field of athletes was supposed to set many meet records. However, it was the girls and women who stole the show at the 1977 Relays.

Girl divisions from 9 and under to 14-15, junior women and women divisions set a combined total of 21 meet records Sunday afternoon.

Bennett trailed Young in total points until the 10-event decathlon moved over to the pole vault pit. With a vault of 16-5, Bennett picked up 1,052 points to overhaul Young. Bennett took a 21-point advantage which he never relinquished as he went on to take the javelin and 1500 meter run.

The winner pulled away to post a 270 point victory over Young as he took the pole vault, heaved the javelin 194-10 and ran the 1500 in 4:37.8.

"The best thing I did was the pole vault," said an exhausted Bennett after finishing the 1500.

Bennett just missed his own personal best in the decathlon pole vault, 16 feet, 7¼ inches. His mark of 16-7¼ is an American record for the decathlon pole vault.

"I was hoping to get a decent discus as I didn't want to fall so far behind that I couldn't catch up in the pole vault.

"I enjoy competing and there are incentives along the way," added Bennett. "They've got an American team that competes against the Russians every year. I've been in two of these Russian meets and I hope to make it again this year even though the meet is here this year. My main objective this year is to make that team."

Bennett's highest point total in the decathlon was set in the National UAA meet in 1973 as he racked up 8,121 points. His score at Munich in 1972 at the Olympic games was 7,974.

In last year's decathlon at MSAC, Bennett fought a hard battle with Gough only to lose by 79 points as the grueling 10-event decathlon went down to the wire.

The 28-year-old athlete from Edmond, Oklahoma summed up his Sunday's performance: "There wasn't any event that I did better in than I expected to do coming into the meet. I did what I was wanting to accomplish in the pole vault. I wanted to break my personal record and clear 17 feet."

In Saturday's half of the decathlon, Bennett won the 400 meters (49.7), placed second in the 100 meter dash (11.2), and third in both the high jump and long jump.

The Southern California Cheetahs girl's track team set three of the 21 meet records by the women and girl's divisions.

Barrie Greer (So. Cal Cheetahs) heaved the discus 112-0 to break Debra Haynes 1971 record of 110-1/2. Melinie Johnson shattered Jackie Nelson's (Orange Coast Thunderbolts) 1975 mark of 128-5 as she hurled the javelin 128-7.

And Shelly Brown barely edged teammate Michelle Taylor by a tenth of a second to establish the 200 meter dash mark. The 200 dash is a new event. Taylor finished at 30.2 as Brown won the event with a clocking of 30.1.

The Cheetahs finished second to the San Diego Cougars in the mile relay and Tracy McMurray finished second at 46.4 to the Blue Angels Suzie Ray (46.0), who broke Debbie Cuevas' old meet mark of 46.3. Jamie Anderson was sixth in the 300 meter hurdles behind Ray and McMurray. Her time was 49.0.

Della Equipilag's meet record in the 400 meter dash was broken by Ann Regan of the San Jose Cindergals. Miss Regan set the mark with a time of 56.7 as the Cheetahs Equipilag finished third. Pam Green placed second in the junior women's 400 meter dash.

Latanya Dawkins of the Long Beach Comets broke Janet Ballard's 1976 record of 12.5 in the 100 meter dash with a winning time of 12.4.

In the women's division, Jennifer Wagstaff of UC Berkeley won the shot put for the second consecutive year. She also won the discus with a heave of 136-5. UCLA's Clydine Crowder won the 400 meter hurdles with a time of 62.1. The meet record is 60.9 in this event.

The old Olympians replaced the youthful Olympic candidates late in the afternoon.

Fortune Gordien won the discus for the second time in two years in the masters division. The former Olympian won the discus with a toss of 152.

Gordien commented, "I never train anymore and I'm interested in what my own boys are doing." Gordien has three sons in track and field at Claremont High and MSAC.

"I'm not worried about assessing my marks or what I do out here. I had a beautiful time when I was in my prime as I trained hard and succeeded along with several beautiful trips. This is just for fun."

"I threw 152 today and for all I know it might be a world's record for a man 53 years of age but it doesn't mean anything as there aren't that many of us old folks throwing the discus. Maybe someday when athletes begin to become interested in staying in shape all of their lives and competing all their lives it will mean something."

Hugo De Groot with his jump of 4-6 in the masters 50 plus age bracket set the meet record. He shattered the old MSAC mark of 4-4 held by John Damski.

Aztecs win 3rd in row

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Los Angeles Aztecs have kept their North American Soccer League record perfect with a 2-1 tiebreaker win over the Portland Timbers.

The Aztecs' victory Sunday keeps them in first place in NASL's Southern Division, with a 3-0 record.

The game was a defensive battle without a score until the 63rd minute, when Steve David put one in for Los Angeles.

Terry Alcock brought Portland to a tie with a goal in the 83rd minute, snapping Aztec goalie Bill Mishalow's scoreless streak at 263 minutes.

Following a scoreless sudden death period the Aztecs scored a pair of goals to Portland's one in the tiebreaker shootout. David and Des Bakos scored for Los Angeles while Tony Betts made the Timbers' lone goal.

Twins lose two hurlers

BLOOMINGTON, Minn. (AP) — Pitcher Mike Pazik of the Minnesota Twins suffered two broken legs in an auto accident early today and teammate Don Carrithers, also a pitcher, suffered a broken arm and a broken leg, said the State Patrol.

Both were hospitalized in fair to serious condition at Fairview Southdale Hospital at Edina, Minn.

Twins Vice President Howard Fox Jr. said Pazik would be out for the season and Carrithers would be sidelined possibly six to eight weeks.

Carrithers, 27, was driving a Volkswagen with Pazik, 26, as a passenger when their vehicle collided with a car driven by Cheryl Ann Petros, 23, of Canton, Ohio, officers said.

By DON BRADLEY
PB Staff Writer

ANAHEIM — With the young Oakland "Broncos" (Poly's Mitch Page and Wayne Gross) coming in tonight, maybe the Angels can forget their slow start and get going.

Norm Sherry probably won't be able to forget. Sherry, 45 when the season began, looks 55 now and wears a haunted look.

The Halos are only 7-10 so far in their "easy" opening schedule. Sunday's debacle didn't help. The Angels gave 14,878 fans a three-hour and 27-minute show. It wasn't always baseball, but it was entertaining.

However Sherry didn't enjoy the performance. He paid more than the fans for this one. His tortured eyes witnessed the following:

— A poor fielding exhibition in which three eighth-inning errors led to five unearned runs and a 10-9 loss to the Milwaukee Brewers.

— A 14-hit, nine-run attack that was wasted. Included were five doubles and two-run home runs by Joe Rudi, Tony Solaita and Don Baylor.

— Four rallies, also wasted, that brought the Halos back from (1) a 3-0 deficit to a 4-3 lead, (2) from a 5-4 deficit to a 5-5 tie, (3) from a 10-5 deficit to 10-7 and (4) then to 10-9 in the ninth inning.

— A shaky performance by Frank Tanana who was wild and very, very hitable.

— Another exhibition of creative fire-building by "The Arson Squad."

"That's the worst game we've played this season," grunted Sherry.

"We gave them eight outs in the eighth inning and messed up two double plays. Bleep!"

"Maybe you'll be glad to go back on the road," one writer suggested. "It doesn't make any difference where we play," Sherry responded. "It's the same thing. Bleep bleep it!"

Tanana was battered for five runs on nine hits in six-plus innings. Although he struck out 10, he walked five, hit a batter and threw a wild pitch.

"Tanana wasn't very sharp today," Sherry admitted. "He had a lot of company," a writer interjected.

Tanana, given a 4-3 lead by Rudi's blast in the sixth, departed in the seventh with no outs and the bases loaded.

Enter Dick Drago with flammable stuff in hand and very shortly Milwaukee led, 5-4. It would have been 4-4 except that Bruce Bochte tried to throw a blooper pitch to home plate after Sal Bando's bases-loaded fly to short center.

Bobby Bonds' double, and 700th career RBI, drove in Jerry Remy to tie the score in the Angels' seventh.

Mickey Scott, who had doused the flames in the seventh, re-kindled them in the eighth by giving up a leadoff hit to Jim Wohlford.

Two errors by Solaita, one on a double play ball, filled the bases and brought on Don Kirkwood, his 13.50 ERA, and more gasoline.

Kirkwood slipped two quick strikes by Don Money and then walked him forcing in a run. A double play ball to Kirkwood resulted in only a force at home when Ike Hampton muffed a throw to first. A walk, two-run single and run-scoring ground out produced the rest of the damage.

"We have a good defense, but our defense beat us today," said Sherry sadly. "We really can't seem to get all the pieces going and get any momentum."

ANGEL ANGLES — Nolan Ryan (2-2), Wayne Simpson (1-2) and Paul Hartzell (1-1) face the A's in the three games beginning tonight. Doc Medich (1-0), Vida Blue (0-2) and Jim Umberger (1-2) are slated for the Athletics who swept the four games played in Oakland.

In daylight games, the Halos were only 14-28 last year and are just 0-5 so far this season. Are these the "dark angels?"

Defensive lapses wreck Angels' rallies

Big day for unknowns

By Associated Press
The previous playoff games had been won on dazzling displays by the big stars of the National Basketball Association: the Abdul-Jabbar, the Isels, the Ervings.

Sunday was a day for the lesser-knowns—those men whose names may be household words only in the homes of their families.

For example, Charles Johnson of the Golden State Warriors. His first reaction, after scoring 16 points in the fourth period to help his team to a 109-105 triumph over the Los Angeles Lakers, was: "How do I feel? Tired, that's all. I'm not used to that much playing time."

Johnson worked 31 minutes in the encounter which helped the Warriors cut the Lakers' lead to 2-1 in the best-of-seven quarter-final series. "The Warriors did exactly what any good team would do: they had a man with a hot hand and they went to him for the shots," said Lakers Coach Jerry West.

And, for one day only, that man's name was not Rick Barry or Phil Smith. It was Charles Johnson.

It was the same elsewhere as the NBA playoffs continued. The Washington Bullets got some important help from rookie Mitch Kupchak to record a 93-90 triumph over the Houston Rockets; the Portland Trail Blazers beat the Denver Nuggets 110-106 in a game "our bench won for us," according to Coach Jack Ramsay, and the Boston Celtics got strong play from their substitutes after losing Charlie Scott, Sidney Wicks and Curtis Rowe on fouls to record a 124-119 victory over the Philadelphia 76ers.

Kupchak's feelings were the same as Johnson's after Washington's tense triumph over Houston. "I'm not used to so much playing time," he said after leading his team with 23 points in 26 minutes of play.

Trail Blazers 110, Nuggets 106

It was not one but four Portland players who carried the Trail Blazers past Denver: Lloyd Neal, Robin Jones, Wally Walker and Herm Gilliam. "Give this one to the Portland bench," said Denver Coach Larry Brown. "They played terrific."

David Thompson scored 40 points and pulled the Nuggets within 107-106, but Gilliam scored three points in the final 15 seconds to help the Trail Blazers hold off a late Denver rush.

Maurice Lucas scored 27 points for Portland while Bill Walton added 26 points plus 13 rebounds.

Celtics 124, 76ers 119

"We overcame the NBA, the 76ers, and two referees—two bad referees—to win this game," said Boston Coach Tom Heinsohn after Dave Cowens collected 37 points to help the Celtics past Philadelphia in a game officiated by two Eastern League referees because of the continuing officials strike.

"We almost weren't allowed to win a ball game today," continued Heinsohn. "We should have won by 30 points. He (Eastern League referee Richie Jackson) had on a 76ers tee shirt today. That's the way he was calling them. I've kept my mouth shut in this series, but now I can't. They (the 76ers) got every conceivable break. I'm tired of this jazz."

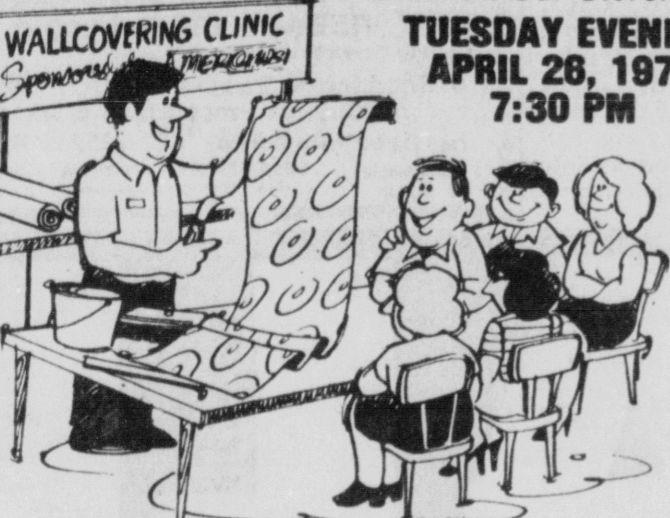

Philadelphia trailed by 22 points at one stage and 16 early in the final period, but pulled within 116-115 with 1:15 remaining. Doug Collins led 76ers scorers with 36 points.

Higher Tar Cigarettes Lose Taste Exclusive.

Taste dominance of higher tar cigarettes challenged by MERIT breakthrough.

---

REGULAR and MENTHOL

Kings: 8 mg. "tar," 0.5 mg. nicotine av. per cigarette, FTC Report Dec. '76.
100's: 12 mg. "tar," 0.9 mg. nicotine av. per cigarette by FTC Method.

Warning: The Surgeon General Has Determined
That Cigarette Smoking Is Dangerous to Your Health.

For years, you couldn't get real tobacco flavor without high tar. Low tar cigarettes just couldn't measure up. Until MERIT.

Until a breakthrough in tobacco science resulted in a way to boost tobacco flavor without the usual corresponding increase in tar.

The result was 'Enriched Flavor' tobacco.

MERIT and MERIT 100's were packed with this special tobacco. And taste-tested against a number of higher tar cigarettes.

Overall, smokers reported they liked the taste of both MERIT and MERIT 100's as much as the taste of the higher tar cigarettes tested.

Cigarettes having up to 60% more tar!

Only one cigarette has 'Enriched Flavor' tobacco. And you can taste it.
